PATROLMAN SLAIN IN BROAD DAYLIGHT

C. C. Wallace Is Shot To Death
By Unknown Person on South Side.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 8.—
C. C. Wallace, a police officer, was shot and killed almost instantly by a negro whose name is unknown Tuesday afternoon at 12-30 o'clock in front of a negro house on Thirteenth street, between Avenue B and C.

Two theories are entertained in regard to the identity of the person who did the shooting, and some have surmised that a white man may be concerned, inasmuch as the victim was a white man with a white beard who was shot.
A negro named Hunter Davis
has been charged with being implicated in the killing.

Robert Workman, a foreman of a paving works company, states that a negro who was formerly in his employ passed the corner of Fourteenth street and Avenue C about five minutes before the shooting occurred. He says that though he is certain of the negro's name that he could not identify him positively. Another witness stated that he noticed the negro who did the shooting was employed by Fred Kreulhans in a soft drink stand nearby.

Immediately after the shooting
there were several persons upon the scene, although none of them witnessed the actual discharge of the gun. According to their statements, Wallace was facing Avenue C and was standing close to the steps of the house. Two shots were fired, one entering his heart and one his abdomen. He tumbled in an alley and was dead almost

LYNCHING OF MEXICAN IN TEXAS RESENTED

Anti-American Demonstration in Mexico City's Street—Newspaper Office Mobbed

Mexico City, Nov. 8.—A crowd of men and boys, variously estimated at from 1000 to 1200, made an anti-American demonstration in the streets here tonight, which was prompted by news of the lynching of a Mexican, at Rock Springs, Tex., on the night of November 3.

Since the publication of this news here, Mexican newspapers
known to be strongly anti-American, have printed editorials, advocating that a demand be made upon the United States for an explanation of the lynching.

After several denunciatory har-angues, the crowd started toward the American embassy to demand satisfaction, but were met by a detachment of police and dispersed.

There were two men in his vicinity, the witnesses state, one a negro and one a white man. Both negro and white man fled.

Wallace was taken to a nearby house and later transferred to his home in North Birmingham.

J. M. Weeks, a white man, was just across the street from the scene. He said that he understood that Officer Wallace was going to the house to arrest a negro for carrying concealed weapons.

As the officer approached the house, the crowd had the intention of submitting to arrest, but when the officer made ready to place the cuff on his wrist he pulled the pistol from his pocket and fired

Abusing a Friend

We have probably been called on by as many subscribers as any other paper, who wished their paper discontinued for one reason or another.

We have had the man who wanted to stop the paper because his eyesight was failing him, and he "couldn't see to read such fine print."

We have been called on by the man who suspected that our political choice on candidates was not up to the standard.

We have seen the man who was tired and wanted to rest. We have seen the man whose children had all moved off from home, and no one was left to read the paper.

We have seen the man who already took more papers than he could read.

And we have obliged them all by stopping their paper as soon as they paid for it.

But we have a new reason. Mr. Jas. W. Pearce, of route 7, does not want the Eagle longer because it "abuses whiskey too much."

Mr. Pearce has not been a close reader, we fear. We have never said any more against the character of whiskey than we have of rough on rats, carbolic acid, or strichnine—all good things in their places, but are problems to deal with if misapplied.

Then, if we have abused whiskey unnecessarily, let whiskey rise up from the earth, where it was crushed, and defend itself. You don't hear of whiskey doing this? No; because whiskey has shown its power and ability of taking care of itself. It doesn't care whether Mr. Pearce takes sides with it or not, or not else. It has been fighting its battles through all political parties, and wins about as many as it loses. If whiskey had been run in and locked up on account of the abuse that it has received at the hands of misguided organs, like this paper, then it would have some excuse for getting its friends to intercede in its behalf. But it hasn't been forced to this method.

That Man Taft

That man Taft pulled up from his summer home at Beverly some time last month. He was to lay off his traveling garb and go to Washington and get on the job. Now it is reported that he is already en route to the Panama Canal country, to inspect the big ditch again.

He was not able to vote if that be true, and we seriously doubt whether he has had time to keep his poll tax paid in any one place, he has been traveling around so much.

Roosevelt will go down in history as the loud president, if you are amind to say that he has gone down in anything, but Taft will go down in history as the traveling man of the White House. It is true, the government sets aside some money for him to spend traveling about, and we doubt not that he uses every dollar of it, and more. He is a traveler, and it is possible that Mrs. Taft is not so well acquainted with him as some of his friends and traveling companions.

Open Up the Streets

Something queer about this street paving crowd. They have put down the cement on all the streets except a little stretch on North St. Andrews, and they are now at work on it. On the other hand, things are at a dead standstill at the crossing of Foster and Main, the most important crossing in the city. The brick, according to the inspectors, do not come up to the contract, and they are not being replaced in much of a hurry. They should have put this work down a week ago, looks like, but the inspection has not been satisfactory, or something, and still the streets are blocked, so far as travel is concerned. If the brick are not good enough, there are others to be had, likely, and they ought to be put down and let this street open up.

Once more the country has been saved. Had you ever thought about it, this country of ours has got to be saved a heap oftener than it used to? About five times during the last year, we have laid down everything and gone out to pull things through. Next year, so far as we know, there will be no politics, unless it is in a few counties in the state, voting on whether or not local option shall prevail, or whether whiskey can be sold legally in some of the counties of Alabama. Outside of this, we see nothing coming up, but the next year, 1912, is a big political year, and much may be doing.

Yesterday was the time when all of the papers referred to the "battle of the ballots," and how "quite the election passed off." Those are terms that will not do down. The very first election that occurred in the world, there must have been some trouble. There must have been a man out who was not in line with his party, and the reporters of that day about the "passed off quite" phase, he gave it a push that kept it bounding ever since.

It has been talked for some time that Taft would fire Ballinger as soon as the election is over, and we remind him of the fact that the election is over, and if he is thinking of firing anybody, let him fire away.

There were many earnest voters yesterday, who were intent on seeing their man get fair, but it was not the earnestness manifested at the polls nearly a year ago, when we saved the state and the constitution, for a time.

There has been no criticism on the weather for yesterday. It was good enough to pull out a good vote, if weather was all that was needed.

If they are really to prosecute the glass trust, isn't it time to warn them about standing too close?

Taking the whole results, there is probably more satisfaction than otherwise, over yesterday's election.

DON'T PUT THE MOTION

The minutes of the council meeting night before last stated that Mr. Pilcher made the motion to raise the Mayor's salary from $1000 to $1200, when in fact the motion was made by Alderman Whiddon and not Mr. Pilcher, as the minutes stated. The Eagle's report was merely a copy of the minutes, and was correct, but the minutes were in error.

Shortage Of Girls.

From the Chicago Tribune.

As though an increased cost of living, higher freight rates, and similar ills to man were not sufficient, we are confronted, so the statisticians tell us, with a shortage of women. Although there are more women than men in the census tables, the supply of girls, the raw material from which women are made, is far below that of boys, and unless something can be done about it there will not be enough women to go around.

To make matters worse, boys are increasing at an alarming rate. Not content with coming in singles, they are appearing in doubles and triples, thus making for a still greater discrepancy in the other sex.

We do not pretend to account for this. We only state it as fact. For many years the balance of sex has been with the women. In New England, we are told, swarms with unmated females. Matrimonial agencies thrive there, and a fine export business is done with Nome, Alaska, and other points where the men predominate. Now that the production has fallen off, the law of supply and demand will advance the price, and that in the face of winter's approach.

The echo of a kind word goes on forever.

LYCEUM

Every great movement has a small beginning, and the most potent forces in the civilization of today were at first scarcely discernable. Not only that, but every movement which has had the betterment of society as its object, has met with strenuous opposition. The public school system, which is now recognized as a public necessity, was at first opposed. The Christian church, the blessings of which are permeating every corner of the globe, had to fight its way for recognition.

The lyceum movement which had its beginning immediately following the Civil war, was hardly discernable at first, but has grown until its work and influence is being felt throughout the nation. The lyceum, probably more than any one other force, is responsible for the insurgent spirit of the middle-west. The lyceum is tuning up the operas and theatres by creating higher ideals in the minds of the people. The lyceum stands for the uplift of the people, by quickening their mentality and raising their ideals concerning what society ought to be. The lyceum is not a show, it does not enter that sphere. Rather it seeks to inspire and educate, with legitimate, non-suggestive, clean entertainments thrown in.

Most of the men who are promoting the lyceum were formerly teachers and preachers, and a large majority of the lyceum speakers and musicians and entertainers are Christians, all working together in an effort to give pleasure and keep alive the best traditions and principles of life.

The lyceum is a movement, and not a bunch of shows independent of each other traveling over the country. In time it will be an institution, just as much so as the public school system, or the church. He, who sees the lyceum as a movement, gets the proper perspective and partakes of the true lyceum spirit.

Oscar Garner, of Malvern, was here yesterday afternoon on business.

Where French Market Coffee Won Its Fame

Over 150 years ago the old French Market at New Orleans won fame through its exquisite coffee. It was a rare treat to stop at this celebrated market and sip of the delicious beverage—the only place in America where it could be secured.

The society dames of all the Mardi Gras Balls would not consider the event complete without a cup of French Market Coffee as a "nightcap."

In the War of 1812, after Andrew Jackson's brilliant victory, he stopped at the Market House and treated his troops to French Market Coffee.

Then it could be had nowhere else. But today you may all serve it at your table—for the old French Market blend is perpetuated by

A SUBSTANTIAL INSTITUTION

Always prospers. The opening of the Campbell Institute of Shorthand and Accounting in Dothan, Ala., on Oct. 3rd 1910 is the beginning of what promises to be one of the most substantial business colleges in Alabama.

The young people do not have to go to the large cities and spend a small fortune getting a first class commercial training.

A good school of Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting and Commercial English, in a good little city, under the direct supervision of an experienced business college man, invites the youth of the South to accept this superior training at a very reasonable figure.

EVERYDAY ANNOYANCES

"When once a man has been up against the sylvian solitudes," remarked the wild man of the woods with considerable feeling; "he has no further use for the busy haunts. The annoyances of civilization are like the items in an auction bill—too numerous to mention. Here in the woods a man may wear a fly net and a set of whiskers, and if he considers himself in full dress nobody is going to argue the matter with him. In the woods you find the real thing in freedom, that priceless boon for which our revolutionary sires bled and died so enthusiastically.

"All the people who live in town belong to the Buttinski family. No matter what you do there the alecks come up and criticize you, or make fun of you, and you can't fall down a flight of stairs in your own home without there being a story in the weekly paper. Well do I remember the fateful day when I girded my loins and fled from the busy haunts.

"I started down town in the morning wearing a new suit of clothes that I considered pretty smooth. I also wore a stiff hat that was fresh from the mint and my shirt was like the driven snow, and the lilies of the field admitted that they were entirely outclassed. The first man I met asked if my new suit had been made by a tinsmith. 'It has about as much style as a corrugated iron roof,' said he, 'and if you give me the name of the miscreant who made it I'll organize a mob and we'll lynch him at noon.'

"I knew he was merely talking through his whiskers, and yet his remarks took all the pleasure of life from me that morning. You knew how it is yourself. I see you have a dog with you and it looks like a thoroughbred."

"It is a thoroughbred and I have the papers here to prove it," said the visitor. "That dog's sire took the first prize—"

"I don't doubt it. The critter looks as if he might be a scion of all the royal families of dogdom. But if I began running him down, saying that I could buy better dogs at the rate of 10 cents a bunch; and if the next man you met made fun of your dog, saying that it had porcupine stock in it; and if every jay you met took a fall out of your dog, you would begin to think after a while, that the beast had wooden words in it and some night you would lead the beautiful creature out into an alley and chop it in two with an ax. That's human nature, my friend. We enjoy the possession of something fine merely because we want to excite the envy and admiration of our neighbors. If they are not impressed, there is no pleasure in owning things. The beauty of living in the woods is that you have no neighbors, and so you don't care a tinker's apostrophe whether you own anything or not.

"Well, the next man I met on that eventful morning walked around me as though I were a manumnt and asked me if I knew my coat collar reached half way up the back of my head. 'The man who made that suit,' said he in the tone of one who speaks more in sorrow than in anger, 'is a menace to our institutions, and it's your duty to give his name to the people, so that the finger of scorn may be pointed at him suits as yours and you know well enough that that would lead to riot and bloodshed.'

"By that time I felt that my new clothes must be really worse than the crime of '73, and when a few more alecks told me that I looked like the bargain counter in a junk store I was wrought up to such a frenzy that I was scarcely responsible for what I was doing. That's the only excuse I can offer for the fact that I called upon the tanner who made my suit and used his head to knock a lot of plaster off the walls with. He was such a cheap sport that he had me arrested, and the fact that I hadn't paid anything on the suit caused the magistrate to ture me in a way that made blood boil.

"When I had paid my made up my mind that I had further use for the busy haunts. Shouting the battle cry of freedom, I upset a Sicilian nobleman's banana stand, set fire to a lot of hay and sped on jubilant to the sylvian solitudes, where a man may live in accordance with the dictates of his own conscience none daring to make him afraid. If plug tobacco grew on the trees around me no human being would see me mingling with the clamorous throngs."

Final arrangements have been made for the lyceum and the first number of the series is announced for Friday night, the 11th.

This number will consist of a humorous lecture by Dr. H. W. Sears. Dr. Sears has been in lyceum and chautauqua work a number of years, and is one of the most popular men on the platform. He is widely spoken of as "The Tappy Man" because one of his most popular subjects is "Mor. Tappy and Less Epitaphy." Quite a number of people in Dothan have heard Dr. Sears and they all speak in the highest terms of his efficiency. He is one of those jolly souls who knows how to make people laugh and a good laugh is oftentimes better than medicine.

Gain Forty Seats

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Democrats have gained forty seats in the National House of Representatives, assuring them not only control, but also a substantial majority. The Democratic gross gain, however, is reduced to a net gain of thirty-seven by three Republican gains. Assuming the party will retain its representation in states not yet heard from, it is apparent the Democrats will have thirty-four members in excess of the twenty-four which were necessary to give them control.

"NOTHING TO SAY," DECLARES ROOSEVELT

Oyster Pt., N. Y., Nov. 8.—"Absolutely nothing to say," was the reply of Colonel Roosevelt when he was called upon to give an opinion on the situation at home all evening, but he declined to even receive inquiries.

Kenneth Roosevelt appeared at the door when at 9:30 an attempt was made to see the Colonel.

"The Colonel has absolutely nothing to say," said Kenneth.

Just after he exited today, Mr. Roosevelt said again that whether the result was favorable or not, the "party would keep up the fight."

He has made it clear that he regards today's election as only a step in a fixed program and that so far as the New York state situation is concerned he believes that his victory over the "old guard" has placed the party in a position from which it can go steadily ahead. Colonel Roosevelt has not given his indications as to what political move he will make in the future. All that he has said is that he expects to enjoy the seclusion of Sagamore Hill for some time to come.

Walt Mason —in Beautiful Book Form—

Uncle Walt

Termed by William Allen White "The Poet Laureate of the American Democracy," this book for which a nation has been waiting for months is ready. This is the first and only volume containing the original immortal prose poems of Walt Mason. Not for a hundred years has there been among us one whose lyrics are so representative of the spirit of democracy—and each one done up in the folio size cap sales sugar coated, and wholly according to the Pure Food Laws. In the next twelve months the home without its "Uncle Walt" book will be a home in gloom indeed.

An All-Star Book

This book is a beautiful work, with cover in several colors by Will Bralley, frontispiece by the famous McCutcheon. In production by William Allen White illustrated by William Stearns. The book is printed on high grade paper, deckle edged, gilt top—200 pages of humor, pathos, and side widening what not. Price, $1.25 net.
